

AbstractAuthentication Method And System

5

The present invention relates to a method for determining the authenticity of an object, the method comprising the steps of:

10

- providing an authentication code,
- determining the positions of particles being distributed in an object,
- encoding of the positions to provide a check-code,

15

- using the check-code and the authentication-code to determine the authenticity of the object.

(Figure 5)

20